SECTION I

A GUIDE TO HIV/AIDS SERVICES IN NORTH TEXAS

July 2015

The 2015 HIV Services Handbook has been designed to help you find services and organizations in Dallas County and surrounding areas. It's not a directory of every service available, and inclusion in this directory does not constitute an endorsement by the Dallas County, Texas Department of State Health Services, or Parkland Health & Hospital System.

The scope of this 17th edition of the Handbook has been redesigned to be more useful to you, the client. Handbooks in the past have primarily listed agencies first, with a list of their services beneath each agency's name. The 2015 Handbook has been designed with services listed alphabetically, with the names of agencies providing the service and the page number where information about that agency can be found.

Agencies providing services in other areas of Texas and surrounding counties have been included as a courtesy for all users of this informational Handbook if the agencies furnished information for publication.

We have relied on the agencies listed to supply us with current and accurate information about their programs and services. If an agency did not respond to our request for information, it may not be included in the Handbook. The Handbook is designed to provide a starting point for accessing services in the Dallas area. In many cases it is only a partial list of the kinds of programs, services, and agencies available to someone living with HIV or AIDS in the Dallas area.

We have made every effort to be accurate in our development of this Handbook. Please understand that services change, and what was true when this book was published may not be true just a few months later. We hope you will find this Handbook useful. We welcome your comments and suggestions. Please contact:

SECTION II

RISK REDUCTION MESSAGE

Myths persist about how HIV is transmitted. Only certain fluids: blood, semen, pre-seminal fluid, rectal fluids, vaginal fluids, and breast milk from an HIV-infected person can transmit HIV. These fluids must come in contact with a mucous membrane or damaged tissue or be directly injected into the bloodstream (from a needle or syringe) for transmission to possibly occur. Mucous membranes can be found inside the rectum, the vagina, the opening of the penis, and the mouth. An HIV infected woman can transmit HIV to her unborn child if she does not seek treatment in a timely manner.

To decrease the risk of spreading HIV:

- Use condoms or dental dams during all sexual activity;
- Preferably, try to stop using street drugs, but definitely do not share drug injection equipment;
- If you are HIV positive and pregnant, talk with your health care provider about taking HIV medications to help prevent HIV transmission to your baby;
- If you are an HIV-infected woman, don't breastfeed any baby;
- Protect cuts, open sores, and your eyes and mouth from contact with blood and the other bodily fluids referenced above.

IMPORTANT

If you think you have been exposed to HIV, get tested.
Testing locations are listed in this Handbook.

REMEMBER

Getting tested now can lead to early detection of HIV which leads to early medical intervention.

SECTION III: IMPORTANT RESOURCES

This guide contains numerous resources, but the ones in this section are highlighted for the value of the service, and because they are new, under-utilized or generally unknown services. As with all listings in this Handbook, services and programs change, and only the agencies themselves can tell you whether or not you qualify for services.

Affordable Care Act

Assistance with the Health Insurance Marketplace

If you are already a client of any Ryan White funded agency: Speak with a case manager. If you do not have a dedicated case manager, tell the receptionist that you want to speak with someone about signing up for health insurance.

All FQHCs have staff that is trained to assist anyone who needs assistance; you do not need to be a patient at that clinic. For locations and contact information, please contact the following:

About Ryan White and The Ryan White Program

The Ryan White HIV/AIDS Program provides HIV-related services in the United States for those who do not have sufficient health care coverage or financial resources for coping with HIV disease. The program fills gaps in care not met by other payers.

Ryan White was diagnosed with AIDS at age 13. He and his mother Jeanne White Ginder fought for his right to attend school, gaining international attention as a voice of reason about HIV/AIDS. At the age of 18, Ryan White died on April 8, 1990, just months before Congress passed the AIDS bill that bears his name – the Ryan White CARE (Comprehensive AIDS Resources Emergency) Act. The legislation has been reauthorized four times since – in 1996, 2000, 2006, and 2009 – and is now called the Ryan White HIV/AIDS Program.

About Housing Opportunities for Persons with AIDS (HOPWA)

The HOPWA program is a federally-funded grant program that provides housing assistance and supportive services for persons living with HIV/AIDS and their families. HOPWA was established by the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990. HOPWA has helped countless persons managing their HIV infection to avoid homelessness by addressing their needs for housing and access to medical and other care.

SECTION V

TIPS AND INSTRUCTIONS

Establishing your Eligibility: Each of the agencies and services listed in this Handbook has specific, and sometimes slightly different, eligibility requirements. Different requirements might include things like your health status, where you live, or how much money you make. Read through the “Getting Started” section of this guide to get a better understanding of the help that is available and how to access services.

What to Carry Around With You: If you are new to care or returning to care, on the day you go out to seek new services, the following items may be very helpful to have with you in order to speed up the eligibility process:

1. Proof that you are HIV positive;
2. Proof of where you live;
3. Proof of your income; and
4. Proof of your insurance status

IMPORTANT: Talk to the staff at whichever agency you visit to find out exactly what documents will be helpful to have when you go for your appointment.

- Proof of HIV/AIDS Diagnosis must be verified by one of the following:
 - o A lab report of detectable HIV “viral load” that includes the name of the client and the testing facility;
 - o A signed statement from a physician, physician’s assistant, an advanced practice nurse or a registered nurse (RN) attesting to the HIV positive status of the person;
 - o A hospital discharge summary that documents HIV positive status and includes the name of the client; or
 - o A confirmatory HIV+ laboratory result (Western Blot, IFA, NAAT, Multispot HIV-1/HIV-2 Rapid Test [Bio-Rad]) or a detectable HIV RNA) that includes the name of the client and the testing facility.
- Proof of residency within the Dallas EMA/HSDA and/or Sherman/Denison HSDA is required and must be verified by one of the following in the client’s name:
 - o A valid Texas driver’s license or Texas state identification card, with an address within a specified service delivery area;
 - o A current Voter Registration Card;
 - o Mortgage or lease agreement with a Texas address within a specified service delivery area, as it relates to the standard Texas Apartment Association (TAA) lease. The first and last page of an executed lease is acceptable, provided all required information is included within these two pages. As for non-TAA leases, the lease must be reviewed thoroughly to determine if the first and last pages have sufficient information to satisfy eligibility requirements;
 - o A receipt or documentation from the landlord, dated within the last thirty (30) days, indicating residence or month-to-month lease;
 - o One household bill with the client’s name and address (including residential or cell phone bill) delivered within the last thirty (30) days;

- o A signed statement dated within the last thirty (30) days, from the client indicating homelessness or non-traditional habitation outside the boundaries of a physical address, institution, or homeless shelter;
 - o Release paperwork from a correctional facility documenting a local address within the Dallas EMA/HSDA and/or Sherman/Denison HSDA;
 - o One article of personal mail with the client's name and address, postmarked within the last thirty (30) days;
 - o One article of business or bulk mail, with the client's name and address, delivered in the last thirty (30) days; a postmarked envelope is not required if the correspondence includes the business name, date sent, and the client's name and address;
 - o Pay stubs dated within the last thirty (30) days; or
 - o A signed statement from a person in the household, dated within the last thirty (30) days verifying that the client lives at a specific address.
- Proof of Income must require any one of the following for each source of income:
 - o Award letter (including, but not limited to: SSI, RSDI, VA, and Pension) granting benefits for the current calendar year;
 - o Payroll check stubs to verify the last thirty (30) days of income;;
 - o Most recent bank statement that shows deposit and source within the last thirty (30) days; this may include electronic bank statements obtained online from the banking institution;
 - o "No Income Certification" form signed by the client within thirty (30) days of intake;
 - o Financial support within the last thirty (30) days including cash payment and assistance from family must be documented with the benefactor, verbally or in writing;
 - o Letter or verbal communication within the last thirty (30) days from an employer verifying frequency of payment and amount of wages or salary;
 - o Child support statements;
 - o Alimony statements;
 - o Signed statement from the client indicating that they receive cash payments for labor performed; or
 - o Most recent W-2 Form or U.S. Tax return.
- Verification of Health Insurance Coverage; Medicaid/Medicare, or Third party Eligibility Verification: Many programs that you will be accessing, including Ryan White Program services, require that their resources (funding) be used as the "payer of last resort". That means that the agency has to verify that there is no other resource available to cover payment for your services before they can use Ryan White or other funding to do so. Not all services require insurance verification. Below is a list of the services that may require it:
 - o Primary Medical Care (doctor visits/labs, etc.);
 - o Psychiatry Services;
 - o Pharmacy Assistance Programs;
 - o Oral Health Services;
 - o Substance Abuse Treatment Services;
 - o Vision Services;
 - o Transportation Services (Medicaid only);

- o Case Management (for children up to 20 years of age and pregnant women only);
- o Acceptable documentation to verify Medicaid/Medicare or third party eligibility status may include:
 - Client self-attestation (acceptable at every 6 month re-assessment) of no change or self-attestation of change with acceptable documentation from the list below;
 - Medicare/Medicaid or other insurance rejection letters;
 - Current verification of employment, i.e. payroll stub, copy of payroll check, bank statement showing direct payroll deposit, letter from employer on company letterhead indicating weekly or monthly wages no greater than 6 months old (to demonstrate Medicaid/Medicare or third party eligibility status);
 - Medifax slips or other automated system (must be done at least monthly)
 - The following documentation is acceptable only for undocumented and/or homeless clients:
 - > Letter on company letterhead from a case manager, social worker, counselor, or other professional (certifying Medicaid/Medicare or third party eligibility status) from another agency who has provided services to the client, stating that the client is undocumented and/or homeless.

REMEMBER: Call ahead to the agency you will be visiting and ask what you'll need to bring when you go for your first appointment. Once you have gathered your eligibility documents, keep them with you for each agency you visit. Some agencies may work with one another and do a central intake, which means once you go through the process at one site it's valid for all sites affiliated with that agency. However, many agencies are stand-alone businesses, and you may have to repeat the eligibility process at each site. Try not to get frustrated by the paperwork – you may find that the process goes smoothly if you stay organized and keep your documents with you while establishing yourself in services.

Be aware that information changes frequently. Since the 2014 Handbook was released, several agencies either added or stopped offering services previously available, and two agencies went out of business. Always call the agency first to verify information.

There are times when individuals do not have all of the information listed. If this is your situation, call and talk to an intake specialist. They often can offer helpful advice on how to collect needed information or offer alternatives not listed in this Handbook.

SECTION VI

GETTING STARTED

Just Recently Diagnosed or Returning to Care?

Receiving an HIV diagnosis is an overwhelming and often frightening experience. Where do you go? Who do you call? What should you do next? There are choices to consider, but the important thing is not to panic. This Handbook is full of options for you, and behind each option is a team of caring professionals who are going to guide you through maintaining your health and accessing all the services you may need in order to deal with the physical and psychological implications of an HIV diagnosis.

Reasons to Enter or Re-Enter Primary Medical Care

In order to guide you through the options that are now a part of your life, there should be someone who understands how all parts of your care fit together to keep you as healthy as possible. That person will typically be your primary care provider (PCP). PCPs are responsible for providing health maintenance care and coordinating care among other specialties. The PCP may be a doctor (MD or DO), nurse practitioner (NP), or physician's assistant (PA). It is best if you and your health care provider work together as a team and that you play an active role in understanding your healthcare needs and HIV disease.

Additionally, in order to keep you as healthy as possible, it is important for a clinician to run laboratory testing to find out what HIV disease stage you are in and what treatment options are available to you. While some people may feel they need to take a breath after an HIV diagnosis and therefore wait to seek medical attention, it is strongly advised that as soon as you are diagnosed, you make an appointment to be seen by a doctor to get yourself established in care. Save taking that breath for when you have the facts so you don't scare yourself with what you don't know.

Who Do I Call First?

To connect or reconnect to the HIV/AIDS care system, simply call one of the organizations listed in pages 28 - 56 that has "RW" (Ryan White) beside the agency name. Each Ryan White organization can either provide you with Intake services, or connect you to an agency that can.

What is an Intake Session?

Your intake session is your first introduction to what is available in the community to help you take care of your health and begin to plan for the future. Intake sessions are scheduled for the first available appointment, although appointments for urgent situations can be scheduled sooner. Every effort will be made to locate an intake site convenient to you. Home visits are available from most intake sites when illness or transportation problems exist.

There are many services available that, based on certain eligibility criteria such as income, could be free of charge to you. These services are funded at many agencies by the Ryan White HIV/AIDS Treatment Extension Act (RWTEA) of 2009 and are known locally as "Ryan White Program" services (RWP). Not all of the agencies or services in this book are funded by the RWP, but they are available to you based on your eligibility criteria. These services include medical and dental care, case management, medication assistance, insurance assistance, HIV education, transportation, mental health counseling, food pantry, legal services, child care, housing, substance abuse treatment and home health services.

Eligibility Certification: All HIV+ individuals who seek care, support and resources from RWP providers must complete an intake session. Intake sessions involve providing important information about yourself so needs/eligibility assessments may be determined. There will be forms to fill out, information and documents to provide to an intake specialist (such as those described on pages 5 – 8), and an in-depth discussion about how help can be provided to you to help you effectively manage living with HIV/AIDS now and in the future.

Once you arrive for your intake session, the intake specialist will fill out a Common Intake Form (CIF) and several other forms that ask many questions. These questions are not meant to intrude on your privacy! They are meant to provide critical information on how best to serve your needs and ensure you understand your diagnosis and the HIV care system. It is good to know that many service organizations require additional paperwork from you beyond the Common Intake Form when you arrive for your first appointment, such as consent to receive services forms.

Once your eligibility has been certified and you have completed the process, your documents and information remain valid for six months from the date of intake. After six months, you will need to update any information that has changed with new documents.

IMPORTANT

It is vital that you keep your appointments for recertification of eligibility. If you fail to keep your appointment, your eligibility will expire, and a full new intake will be required again before you can return to services.

How Long Does an Intake Session Take?

You should make plans to spend several hours to complete your intake session to allow the intake specialist the time needed to complete required paperwork, explain the HIV care system, offer information about HIV, the importance of ongoing health care and provide referrals to needed care and resources.

Can I Bring Someone With Me?

Absolutely! It is important that your loved ones be involved in your care and support. We welcome them at the intake session. We can help them better understand HIV and become a stronger support system for you. There may also be services we can offer them as affected family members such as counseling or child care for your children. In addition, we have access to many other non-HIV related services in the community that may be very helpful for caregivers, partners and family members.

What Happens to My Information?

Information provided at the intake session is collected and entered into a Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS) database called ARIES. ARIES information is secure and confidential in order to protect your privacy. It is used to track the HIV epidemic, the needs of the people impacted by the disease and the services utilized by them. All Ryan White funded organizations are required to enter this information and maintain strict confidentiality of the information provided to us. Only you can provide permission for us to share that information with other providers.

You will be provided a copy of all forms completed during intake. It is important that you take this packet with you to your first appointment at other referral service organizations. We will also, with your permission, share needed information with these referral service organizations to help expedite the referral process so you can begin needed services as quickly as possible.

The Benefits of Case Management and Care Coordination

Your intake specialist will discuss the benefits of case management and how it can assist your long-term efforts to manage your health, offer support as you and your loved ones adjust to your diagnosis, and help link you to future services you may need, such as legal and counseling services, Social Security, Medicaid, Medicare, Medicare Part D and many other community resources. Case managers are specially trained to respond to the needs of HIV+ people and help plan for long term financial, emotional and physical needs. They can be your advocate and guide to accessing important services, support, education and health care.

Case management is free to any HIV+ person regardless of income.

How do I Connect to Case Management?

It is easy to get linked to this service. The intake specialist will assess your needs and provide an opinion about your need for case management; however, case management is available to any HIV+ person upon request. Once you request the service, the intake specialist will help you choose the best site to meet your unique needs. You will be referred immediately and a case manager will call you for a first appointment. They will provide additional assessment and begin a comprehensive care plan that focuses on reaching optimal quality within your medical, financial and emotional life. Ongoing referrals will be provided to ensure you remain linked to medical care.

HIV education, treatment adherence planning, home visits, family/partner education and testing, and support groups are just some of the additional support available to you in addition to the wide range of services throughout the North Texas area. Home visits are available at several of the case management sites and bilingual services are available at most for Spanish, French and American Sign Language.

You should ask about the availability and the criteria for case management home visits when you contact one of the listed sites.

What if I Don't Want Case Management?

Not a problem. Not everyone needs ongoing case management and some people only need intermittent assistance. If you do not want or need future referrals beyond the intake session, you are not required to accept case management. If you should need future referrals, you will require a case manager to assist you. Simply call your original intake site and let them know your needs. They will link you with a case manager as soon as possible in an area that's most convenient to you. We are here to help! If you are HIV+ and need assistance, please call us. We stand ready to guide you through a complex care system with the best possible impact on your health, stability and well-being.

What Happens Next?

Once the intake specialist completes the required paperwork and assessment for eligibility and needs, he or she will provide you with immediate referrals to needed medical care and supportive services. They will inform you on how to make an appointment and what additional paperwork you may need that is unique to each service organization. They will also provide you a referral form for all referred services you need at that time and educate you on how case management can help you access additional services you may need in the future. Although intake specialists can provide initial referrals at the time of your intake, only a case manager can provide referrals after the intake process is completed. It is therefore very important to consider case management as a potential service you may need in the future.

Once your intake is complete and you receive your intake packet and referral form, you simply call the referred organizations for a first appointment. Be sure to ask if there is additional information you need to bring beyond the intake packet provided to you. Your intake specialist can help you make these appointments if you choose.

What Else?

2-1-1 is a free, easy-to-remember phone number connecting callers with health and human services in their community. When you dial 2-1-1, you will talk to a trained resource specialist who has access to comprehensive data base listings of nearly all health and human services that exists in Texas. This includes but is not limited to: rent and utility assistance, food, emergency shelters, where to get employment help, medical and mental health assistance, help with transportation, and trained suicide intervention counseling. You can also get information on affordable child care, information about caring for an aging relative, or help recovering from a disaster. Information and referral is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week throughout the year. Information can be provided in over 90 different languages.
